On September 25, 2020, Governor Gavin Newsom signed the 1864 Assembly law that expanded the jurisdiction of the Corporate Supervisory Department (DBO). After the signing of the Bill 107 Assembly on 29 September 2020, the DBO was renamed the Department of Financial Protection and Innovation (DFPI) with immediate effect. Welcome to the DFPI Self Service Department of Financial Protection and Innovation (DFPI) Self-Service Portal provides affordable online services for consumers and companies and individuals looking to get a license from DFPI. By registering the DFPI Self Service Portal, you are indicating your agreement to comply with and be bound by the Terms and Conditions of Use of this website. Select the link at the bottom of the page to view these provisions. If you are a current DFPI licensee, a new applicant or a warning filer, register an account or sign in with your username. By registering an account on the Self-Service Portal, you will be able to request a license, pay license fees, submit an application, store a notice and view status updates online. List of files available on the portal: Click hereNote: On June 2020, changes to the searchable documents were postponed until further notice. Search for available storage documents in public and download them immediatelyDocument SearchInstitutions licensed by DFPI are required to provide and maintain an email account that is designated for communications with DFPI, for the Order of Commissioner issued on 22 November 2013. The purpose of the Order is to create a quick and direct communication to an email account that your company will monitor daily. To update your designated email address, you must have a DFPI Self-Service Portal account. If you already have an account, you can log in to access the "Email Designate" section of your Account page. If you don'tan account, you need to register for an account by clicking the Register link now and completing it by completingregistration form. Register now Designed email instructionsJohn Holland®'s new self-directed research generation (SDS®) is a career-evaluation and exploration tool that matches your aspirations, activities and talents with career choices and educational opportunities that suit you best. The SDS is based on a theory developed by John Holland, known as RIASEC theory, that both people and working environments can be classified according to six basic types: realistic, investigative, artistic, social, enterprising and conventional. These personality types are known together as RIASEC. The evaluation asks questions about aspirations, activities, skills, interests and other self-esteem. It only takes about 20 minutes to complete. At the end of the online evaluation, an interactive and personalized report is generated. Depending on the answers, you will receive a StandardSDS report, a StudentSDS report or a VeteranSDS report. A Personalized Summary Code, which is based on the evaluation results. A description of each of the six types RIASEC. A custom list of occupations and fields of study associated with the User Summary Code, which can be further customized. An additional custom list of occupancy based on the daytime occupancy of the user. An overview of the wage data associated with the preferred professions. A list of additional careers organized by the career cluster, which can be used for an even deeper self-direct research. Links to resources to help users with educational and professional planning.
